

34th ANNUAL ALES SLONAKER

HALL OF FAME AWARDS CEREMONY

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 2021 GAMMA-RHO CHAPTER KAPPA SIGMA FRATERNITY THE UNIVERSITY OF ARIZONA

TO THE 34TH GAMMA-RHO HALL OF FAME AWARDS CEREMONY

The 34th Annual Gamma-Rho Hall of Fame Award is being presented by the Gamma-Rho Chapter of Kappa Sigma Fraternity on Friday, November 5, 2021.

Conceived as a way of honoring Kappa Sigma and Gamma-Rho alumni for outstanding achievements, this award has become an integral part of our tradition here at Gamma-Rho.

Inductees are among a select group of alumni. Recognition is given to those who have excelled in their career, or in their service to the community and/or to the fraternity.

In conjunction with the A.L. Slonaker Hall of Fame inductees, Gamma-Rho also honors an alumnus as the Mike Cagalj Man of the Year each year. Men of the Year are recognized for their outstanding service to the fraternity. The award honors Mike Cagalj and all the years of service Mike provided to the chapter.

Good of the Order

DR. ISAAC MARTINEZ '91

Dr. Isaac Martinez currently works at Cigna Healthcare where he is the National Senior Medical Director for Inpatient Trend

Management and Core Case Management. Brother Martinez has spent just over nine years with Cigna and has also worked as a Medical spokesman for Cigna and in doing so, he has been on three Good Morning America Cigna Health and Wellness tours across the country. Outside of his direct profession, Dr. Martinez is a member of the Board of Directors for the Association for Vascular Access, March of Dimes, The Aperture Project, and has volunteered for too many organizations to list!

During his years in Tucson during his undergraduate career, Brother Martinez spent time as the Gamma-Rho Philanthropy Co-Chair, a Student Health Services Counselor, was a member of Order of Omega, Greek Honor Society and was awarded Student Health Promotion and Preventive Services Outstanding Volunteer Service award. After receiving his bachelor's degree from UofA in 1994, Brother Martinez stayed local and received his Doctorate of Medicine from the UofA College of Medicine.

Since graduating UofA, Brother Martinez has stayed well involved in both Gamma-Rho and in his local community. Within Gamma-Rho, Isaac has recently volunteered as both the Gamma-Rho Health and Wellness Advisor and is a member of the Educational Foundation Board. Professionally, Dr. Martinez has spent time on a number of committees within hospitals in Phoenix. In addition to his medical career with Cigna, Dr. Martinez lectures and precepts courses within the UofA's College of Medicine.

To Isaac, Gamma-Rho and Kappa Sigma mean, "Brotherhood and lifelong friendships. Nearly all of my closest friends came from my fraternity years and have been a part of all important aspects of my life. I hope I have been there for them and had their back as much as they have had mine through the years. This is also where I first learned the important traits that make a great leader and my time in the fraternity undoubtedly led to my further success in life. Brotherhood and lifelong friendships."

Brother Martinez resides in Phoenix with his wife Jennifer. His son Ian is a pre-med student at ASU and his daughter Olivia is in high school.

WARD ANDREWS '94

Ward is the CEO at Drawbackwards, a multi-million dollar consulting firm that dissolves complexity and delivers simplicity for customer experience and software product teams globally.

He has worked with hundreds of the world's biggest brands for over twenty years including: American Express, Choice Hotels, Blue Cross Blue Shield, Sony, Intel, General Dynamics, Insomniac Games, GoDaddy and Willis Towers Watson. His brand and design projects have garnered Addy, Prisma and Emmy awards.

His CX and software product work has generated over $1B in value through cost savings and new revenue growth. Ward's enterprise client mix includes: healthcare, financial services, hospitality and a range of consumer products. High-growth SaaS companies partnering with Drawbackwards have been acquired by the likes of Square and Experian.

In the sports world, Ward is known for his Shaq account on Twitter, motivating Shaquille O'Neal to create a "real" Twitter account. Sports Illustrated called the project an "enormous impact on modern sports culture". Twitter's Biz Stone declared his account the "first known celebrity impersonation" on Twitter. Ward has also designed Lute and Bobbie Olson Court for the University of Arizona and the Nash-era two-tone wood Phoenix Suns court, which was celebrated by Phoenix Suns forward Shawn Marion as "sick" (which had to be explained to Suns management as a "good thing").

Heavily involved in his local community, Ward has served as an advisory board member for the City of Chandler Economic Development Advisory Board, has taught as design entrepreneurship at Arizona State, and is well involved as a volunteer for the Boy Scouts of America.

To Ward, Gamma-Rho and Kappa Sigma means "A place to learn and grow. A strong foundation to make school and life choices from. A connection to a lifetime friends and business associates. Wonderful memories and an amazing college experience."

Ward is happily married to his wife Lisa in Mesa with his three children, Audrey, Max & Hannah.

PETER WAND '01

Peter is a partner at Lewis Roca Rothgerber Christie LLP in Phoenix. During his undergraduate days, Peter served Gamma-Rho as the Scholarship Chair in 2003 and was very involved on campus. Over his four years, Peter was the Bobcats Senior Honorary President, a member of Chain Gang Junior Honorary, a founder of the Zona Zoo, and an Associated Students of the University of Arizona Senator. Peter is also a member of Phi Beta Kappa and is a member of the board of UofA's Alumni Association. After graduating Magna Cum Laude in 2004 from UofA, Peter attended the Georgetown University Law School and graduated Cum Laude in 2007.

Before joining Lewis Roca Rothgerber Christie LLP, Peter worked for United States Senator Jon Kyl of Arizona & United States Senator Dianne Feinstein of California. While in Washington, Peter also worked on the US Senate Committee's on the Judiciary's Subcommittee on Terrorism, Technology & Homeland Security as a legal extern. In addition to his work in the Capital, Peter has taught Law at Georgetown as a Global Teaching Fellow, where he taught International Law. Brother Wand's wide range of accomplishments have not gone unnoticed in the community, he has been recognized as one of the Southwest Super Lawyers from 2012-2021 by AZ Business Magazine.

Just as he was at UofA, Peter stays heavily involved in his local community, Peter is still very involved in the community, brother Wand serves as a member of the Board of Directors of the Arizona-Sonora Desert Museum, Saint Theresa Catholic School, Saint Mary's Catholic High School, and is a member of the Scottsdale 20-30 Club.

To put into words what Gamma-Rho and Kappa Sigma meant to him, Peter stated "Gamma-Rho and Kappa Sigma were critical to the amazing experience I had during my four years at the University of Arizona. My first day on campus I met Christopher Gladney '98. He encouraged me to rush Kappa Sigma, gave me a house tour and introduced me to a number of brothers. Following Chris around the house that day is a good metaphor for my next four years. With the encouragement of Sam Chang '00, Eric Chambers '00 and Ben Graff '98, I ran for elected campus office my Sophomore year and served as an ASUA Senator with fellow Kappa Sigma, Andrew Hottovy '00. I followed Sam and Eric into Chain Gang Junior Honorary and later into Bobcats Senior Honorary where I served as President. Even after I graduated, I still relied on my Kappa Sigma brothers both professionally and personally. After graduating from Georgetown University Law School, I took a job with Lewis Roca Rothgerber Christie LLP - where two of my Kappa Sigma fraternity brothers (Sam Chang and Ben Graff) were then employed. Sam and I remain law partners today. To increase my involvement in the community and give a little something back, in 2011 I followed Chris Gladney into the Scottsdale 20-30 Club. I can't thank Kappa Sigma and my fraternity brothers enough for what they've done for me - the bonds built during those four years will surely last forever."

Peter lives in Phoenix with his wife Elizabeth, and his three young children, Baylor Elizabeth Wand (b. 2009), Augustus Jack Wand (b. 2012) and Theodore Robert Wand (b. 2019).

JOHN FUNG '84

Brother John Fung recently became the Development Manager for Gospel Rescue Mission. He was previously the Director of Development at the University of Arizona College of Medicine. John immigrated to the United States from Hong Kong when he was 12 years old. After graduating the University of Arizona with majors in Accounting and Finance, John operated an Allstate Insurance Agency for 13 years, and then entered into pharmaceutical and medical sales for the next 14 years of his career.

In September 2014, John joined the University of Arizona Development team, and in the last five years has raised over $13 million for research, scholarship and faculty support. In 2017, John earned his Master of Business Administration degree from the Grand Canyon University, and 2018 he earned his Certified Fund Raising Executive designation. In his spare time, John serves on the board for the Junior Achievement of Arizona Southern District, and the UA Asian American Faculty, Staff & Alumni Club. A mentor for the UA Asian Corporate Entrepreneur Leaders Collegiate Chapter, and the FBI Citizens Academy Phoenix Alumni Association Events Committee.

John is also an avid soccer referee and has officiated over 2200 matches including high school, competitive youth, adults, co-ed and collegiate club leagues.

John's favorite memories from UA was being a part of Primus, Sophos & Chain Gang, which offered him the opportunity to get to know a number of Kappa Sigma's at a personal level before he considered rushing a fraternity in the spring of his sophomore year. HIs favorite chapter memories are the tailgates before all the home football games, intramurals and of course, FUBAR.

Brother Fung says: "I have made lifelong friends through Kappa Sigma. Although we are all uniquely different, but we have a common bond which tied us together. The Gamma-Rho Chapter truly signifies our motto, "Not for a day, an hour, or a college term only, but for life".

John's advice to undergraduate brothers and young alumni "is to build your network before you need them. Step out of your comfort zone and take a risk. Be kind to others. If you are in a position to help someone, just do it. Pursue something that genuinely makes you happy and alive. You will be richly rewarded beyond your wildest dreams."

ERIC MANESE '87

After graduating from UArizona in 1992, Eric pursued a career in financial services and worked for companies such as American Express and AG Edwards. Currently, Eric manages a branch of Rancho Sante Fe Insurance, San Diego's most reputable and largest personal insurance firm.

While Eric was an undergraduate, he had the opportunity to serve the chapter in the capacity of Grand Master of Ceremonies along with a seat on the Intrafraternity Council. His immersion in the chapter was protracted and longer than most, as he was a member of the "five-year plan". Eric had the opportunity to be a part of the chapter at different seasons being of a student.

The Gamma-Rho Chapter and Kappa Sigma were a simpler time in Eric's life. It was a special time of new friendships and learnings without any of the drama or complications of the real world and its complexities. For Eric, Kappa Sigma was his first introduction to responsibility, accountability leadership, philanthropy and service above self. In reflecting, his experiences at Gamma-Rho have left an indelible imprint on his operating system and how he lives his life today. Eric wants undergraduates to know that life is a team sport; and you should not be prideful or ashamed to ask for help. Eric is the product of many people who have invested time and resources into him over the years, which resulted in the best version of himself. This old adage still resonates deeply within Eric, "If you want to go fast, go alone, but if you want to go far, go together".

With exposure to the financial industry of the 1990's and 2000's and as a former Board member of a San Diego Hospital Foundation, Eric was able to see first-hand the implementation of charitable strategies to improve the community and quality of life of the donor(s). One such strategy involves the gift of real property to a qualified nonprofit in exchange for a lifetime of income. Through business relationships, he is most pleased to have a hand in augmenting the retirement of senior citizens in this country (www.homeequityleverageprogram.com).

Furthermore, he is the current Chair of a scholarship and nonprofit mentorship program in Southern California called Future Legends (www.futurelegends.org) where he is proud to announce a 100% graduation rate amongst their scholars.

In addition, and with the passing of the Farm Bill in December 2018, Eric co-founded a company (www.preferred-cbd.com) earlier this year to distribute branded and private label CBD products to the public through national retailers. As a believer in the therapeutic benefits of hemp derived CBD, he has formed alliances with professional sports leagues, retired players associations and veterans- groups to help in the adoption and promotion of these therapies to the masses.

ROBERT HUBERTY '00

Initiated into Gamma-Rho in 2000, Rob served as the Grand Procurator for the chapter during his sophomore year before studying abroad during his junior year. While he was away, 9/11 occurred and it left Rob profoundly affected. He struggled during this time and nearly everything seemed meaningless because he was so angry about the attack on our country. During this time, he became a more serious student and spent less time at the fraternity house, however, he lived with brothers from the house separately.

Though Rob distanced himself from the chapter house after 9/11, he did not fully understand the lasting impact of the friendships he had formed at Kappa Sigma. At the time, he felt like he needed to pursue something that was deeply personal. After college, he joined the U.S. Navy as a Navy SEAL, another tightknit brotherhood, for 9 years where he collaborated with international governments to conduct special operations and trained foreign forces to ensure mission success.

After serving in the military, Rob went back to school at the University of Pennsylvania and received his MBA from The Wharton School. Since, Rob has co-founded ZeroEyes, which uses existing video cameras and artificial intelligence to save lives to detect and prevent possible threats. By giving warning before shots are fired, ZeroEyes is working to make the world safer from active shooters. ZeroEyes has raised $5.00M of seed from various investors.

Rob had Kappa Sigmas at his wedding and has called upon the advice of brothers through every significant event of his life. As time has passed, the lasting friendships from the fraternity remain an integral component of his support network. Rob wants undergrads to know that it is alright if you do not know what you want to do when you grow up. He advises to find a mission in life and devote vourself to it. You should chase the feeling of butterflies in your stomach because it means you are nervous and about to take a big chance. The best things in life happen after the butterflies. Rob is married to his wife, Monica, and they have 3 daughters: Audrey (5), Amelia (2), and Adeline (3 months old).

PETE PARKER '88

Brother Parker '88 is a more than deserving recipient for the 2021 Gamma-Rho Man of the Year Award. In his years as an undergrad, Pete served as the Social Chair, Scholarship Chair, Philanthropy Chair, Grand Scribe, Grand Procurator, and Grand Master. During his time, Pete was recognized as Grand Master of the Year by Kappa Sigma and was a recipient of the Matt Noble Outstanding Senior Award. When describing his undergraduate days and time with Kappa Sigma, Pete wrote, "I owe all that I accomplish and enjoy to two beings...my mom and Gamma-Rho. First, my mom because she taught me the values of community and philanthropy. She was an amazing force who, God rest her soul, continues to inspire greatness in me. Gamma-Rho gave me the platform to break out of my shell and pursue my dreams. Each brother played an integral role in my development as a person and a leader. The nightly basketball and volleyball games, chapter and committee meetings, parties and philanthropies, and early morning runs to Mike's Place were instrumental in shaping me as an odd, overly enthusiastic, and driven person. Study tables didn't exactly work for me but, then again, these guys elected this kid, who was on academic probation, as its Scholarship Chair!" Outside of Gamma-Rho as an undergrad, Pete was involved in the Race Track Industry Club, Spring Fling, and the Interfraternity Council. Brother Parker is still involved with the university as the President of SierraCats, an Alumni Association Chapter, and is the former President of the Race Track Industry Program Alumni Association.

Pete has continued his service to Gamma-Rho and Kappa Sigma as an alumnus. He has served on multiple house corporations and educational foundations and is currently the President of the Kappa Sigma Educational Foundation of Arizona and the Tau-Gamma House Corporation at the University of Nevada.

Professionally, Pete has devoted his career to the non-profit and fundraising sector. Currently, he is a Managing Director of NPcatalyst LLC, a non-profit consulting firm where he serves permanent roles as the Executive Director of Pathways to Aviation, which provides college and career readiness training, certification, and connections to young people seeking aviation and aerospace careers, and is the Fundraising

Director of the F C Cancer Foundation (aka Fxck Cancer). In addition to the non-profits, Pete also works with Fraternity Management Group, where he focuses on client strategies and manages FMG's new career network. Pete also volunteers for a number of organizations and serves as the President for My Hometown Heroes, Vice President of Sierra Military Hospitality Services, and a Board Vice President for the Circle of Change Leadership Foundation.

Pete's work ethic and drive has not gone unnoticed, he was recognized with a Reno-Tahoe Young Professionals Network Twenty Under 40 Award, was named University of Nevada Alumnus Advisor of the Year twice, and was awarded with the Nevada Governor's Point of Light Award for his volunteer service.

Perhaps Pete's greatest accomplishment has been co-parenting his two children. His son, Caden, graduated from Weber State University with a Computer Sciences degree in 2020. In addition to his web development work, Cade is busy publishing his first video game. And, his daughter Tessa is a senior here at the U of A, where she's an exceptional student and active leader with Chi Omega and Arizona Ambassadors, and is past president of Links (formerly Chain Gang).

Pete spends his free time running, cycling, and hiking in the Sierras with Heidi, whom he married at a Reno-Tahoe Odyssey relay race exchange point in Virginia City. He and his father belong to a horse racing syndicate, where they co-own a small group of thoroughbreds.

As for his closing thoughts, Pete wrote, "There are far too many memories and, because of Gamma-Rho, I made the most of my college experience. I had a ton of fun, got involved in a ton of organizations and events, worked my ass off to graduate, and fell in love for the first time. I definitely don't look back and wish I could have done more, but I routinely consider returning to earn my master's in horse racing! Perhaps the best part of my fraternity involvement has yet to come. The relationships I've developed with fellow alumni continue to help me thrive as an individual today. Whether they were in the chapter during my days or from other years, I'm having a blast working on Gamma-Rho's next chapter. I appreciate this amazing chapter and am grateful for my being a part of such an incredible collection of leaders."

PAUL CLAPP '02

Professionally, Paul Clapp has specialized in Government Solutions for almost 10 years, starting at Hyland Software, the developer of the Enterprise Content Management software OnBase. By focusing on State & Local Agencies, he has had an opportunity to help improve business processes that are often outdated or manual. Since then, Paul has since joined Iron Mountain, a global leader for storage and information management services. There, the

Gamma-Rho alum leads the State, Local and

Education Sales Team (SLED) for the Western

half of the IIS

Paul is a 2004 Graduate of John Carroll University where he was a founding father of the Xi-Tau Chapter of Kappa Sigma in 2002. Gamma-Rho started as an opportunity right out of college, when Brother Clapp was offered an opportunity to move to Tucson and be the resident advisor and Alumnus Advisor starting that July. Moving from a town of 3000 people in Ohio to the large college environment, Paul was quickly welcomed in by the Gamma-Rho brothers. Although not being an undergraduate in Gamma-Rho, Paul believes that "Gamma-Rho allowed (him) to learn life lessons that didn't come easy, but looking back at it, (he) wouldn't change a thing."

Some of Paul's favorite recent memories of Gamma-Rho has been the quality time with alumni during Homecoming events and Housing Corporation meetings in Pinetop and Ixtapa, Mexico. Not only the events, but Paul also treasures the lessons and wealth of knowledge that has come from the Kappa Sigma business owners, leaders and experts in their respective fields. He has been quoted stating "sometimes sitting back and listening to how they tackle each situation is just as rewarding as reading self-help or sales books." Paul is proud to be called a member and brother of an organization in which the unique backgrounds that the alumni bring to each conversation is unmatched in most organizations around the country.

Since getting back involved, Gamma-Rho has taken on a new meaning for Paul. It has now become a network where he continually looks forward to meeting brothers from all around the US. He always enjoys hearing how Gamma-Rho has impacted the lives of everyone, and while Paul did not participate as an undergrad, he feels that he can do his part as an Alumni Volunteer and Board Member to help protect the future of Gamma-Rho so that future generations will have the same opportunities.

Kappa Sigma as an organization, means lifelong friendships to Paul. Like most of the Gamma-Rho members some of his best friends are Kappa Sigs. Although he talks to some more often than others, he and his brothers always pick back up right where they left off no matter how much time has passed. Kappa Sigma has also given him the opportunity to travel, as both an undergraduate and a graduate brother, to help other chapters with installations and going to conclaves. When asked for some advice for younger members Paul said to "utilize your resources, reach out to Alumni and don't be shy when you graduate. The Alumni and Housing Corporation are only involved to help. Take a look at the directory and see what Alumni live in your area and get together with them."

Paul and his wife, Maggie O'Neill, live in Cleveland, Ohio with their two daughters (Raegan & Brett) and have been married since 2015.
